

A/B Testing

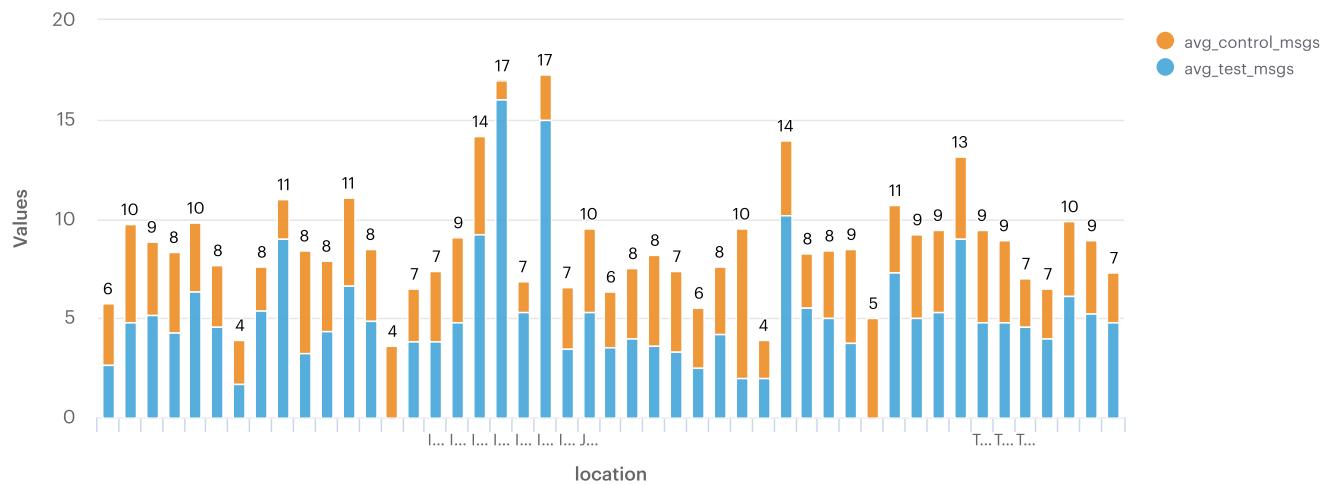

The plot below shows that the treated test users posted significantly more when using desktops and laptops. This could mean that the messaging feature had more influence for users viewing the desktop version of the site as opposed to the mobile version. Significant drops in message averages dropped for tablets and phones.

Avg Messages Sent by Device

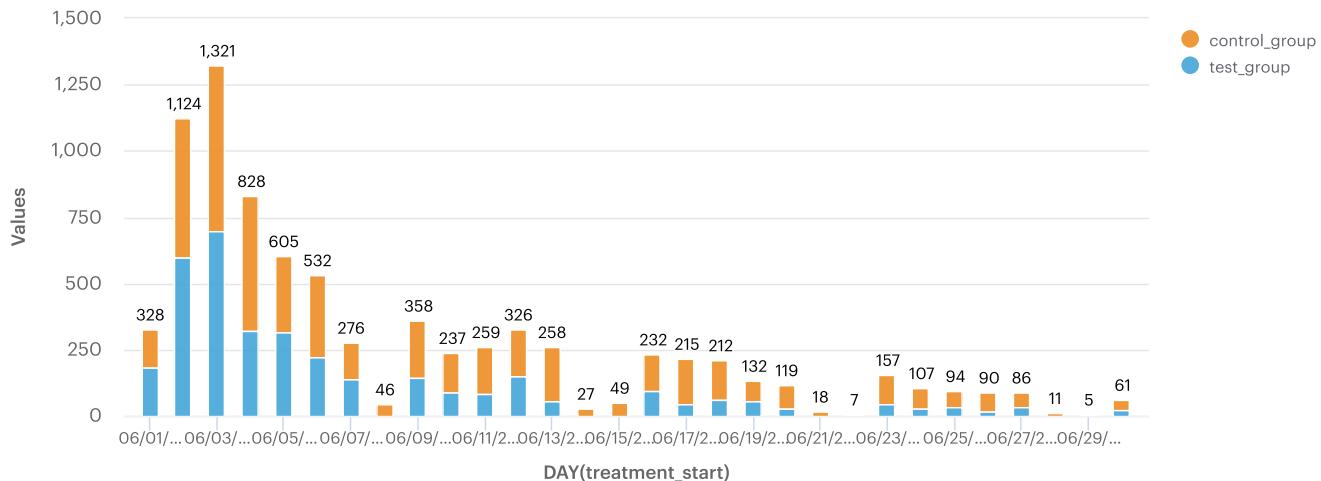

Users from Middle East (Israel, Iraq) averaged more sent messages by significant margins. Was the text around feature translated to different languages? If so, maybe something was lost in translation to explain why other countries did not show similar results.

Number of Messages Sent by Location

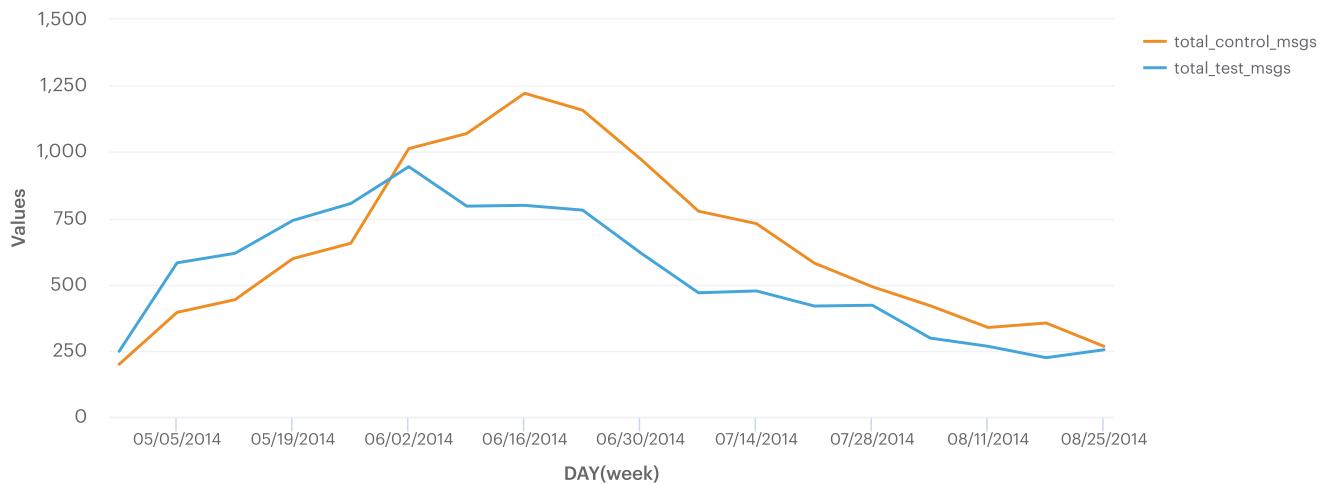

The treated test users who had more time to use the feature clearly show a higher count of sent messages.
